

VOL. 1.

CHEBOYGAN, SATURDAY, JULY 1, 1876.

NO. 51.

THE WEEKLY
NORTHERN TRIBUNE.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY BY
W. CHANDLER,
CHEBOYGAN, MICHIGAN.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year, $2.00
One copy, six months, $1.00
One copy, three months, $0.50

PAY ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Subscribers within Cheboygan county will receive their papers free of mail, and those living outside the county will have their postage prepaid by the publisher.

RATES OF ADVERTISING:

One-half inch space (six lines) for one week, for one insertion, 25 cents; for each additional line, 10 cents; for each additional week, 10 cents; for each additional line, 10 cents.

For subsequent insertions, or a larger space, prices will be given at the office.

Local notices 10 cents per line for the first insertion, and 5 cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

Certain Business Directories, etc. lines or under, $3 per year; each additional line $1 per year.

Time Tables.

GRAND RAPIDS & INDIANA R. R.
AND C. R. & F. W. R. R.

CONDENSED TIME CARD, JULY 1, 1876.

GOING NORTH.
Station	Express	Express	Accom.
Cheboygan	7:00 A. M.	7:30 A. M.	8:00 A. M.
Winchester	11:25 A. M.	11:55 A. M.	12:25 P. M.
Port Huron	1:40 P. M.	2:10 P. M.	2:40 P. M.
Decatur	3:55 P. M.	4:25 P. M.	4:55 P. M.
St. Wayne	5:10 P. M.	5:40 P. M.	6:10 P. M.
Keweenaw	6:25 P. M.	6:55 P. M.	7:25 P. M.
Lansing	7:40 P. M.	8:10 P. M.	8:40 P. M.
St. Louis	8:55 P. M.	9:25 P. M.	9:55 P. M.
Chicago	10:10 P. M.	10:40 P. M.	11:10 P. M.
St. Paul	11:25 P. M.	11:55 P. M.	12:25 A. M.
Minneapolis	12:40 A. M.	1:10 A. M.	1:40 A. M.
St. Paul	1:55 A. M.	2:25 A. M.	2:55 A. M.
Chicago	3:10 A. M.	3:40 A. M.	4:10 A. M.
St. Louis	4:25 A. M.	4:55 A. M.	5:25 A. M.
Lansing	5:40 A. M.	6:10 A. M.	6:40 A. M.
St. Wayne	6:55 A. M.	7:25 A. M.	7:55 A. M.
Port Huron	8:10 A. M.	8:40 A. M.	9:10 A. M.
Winchester	9:25 A. M.	9:55 A. M.	10:25 A. M.
Cheboygan	10:40 A. M.	11:10 A. M.	11:40 A. M.

GOING SOUTH.
Station	Express	Express	Accom.
Cheboygan	7:00 A. M.	7:30 A. M.	8:00 A. M.
Winchester	11:25 A. M.	11:55 A. M.	12:25 P. M.
Port Huron	1:40 P. M.	2:10 P. M.	2:40 P. M.
Decatur	3:55 P. M.	4:25 P. M.	4:55 P. M.
St. Wayne	5:10 P. M.	5:40 P. M.	6:10 P. M.
Keweenaw	6:25 P. M.	6:55 P. M.	7:25 P. M.
Lansing	7:40 P. M.	8:10 P. M.	8:40 P. M.
St. Louis	8:55 P. M.	9:25 P. M.	9:55 P. M.
Chicago	10:10 P. M.	10:40 P. M.	11:10 P. M.
St. Paul	11:25 P. M.	11:55 P. M.	12:25 A. M.
Minneapolis	12:40 A. M.	1:10 A. M.	1:40 A. M.
St. Paul	1:55 A. M.	2:25 A. M.	2:55 A. M.
Chicago	3:10 A. M.	3:40 A. M.	4:10 A. M.
St. Louis	4:25 A. M.	4:55 A. M.	5:25 A. M.
Lansing	5:40 A. M.	6:10 A. M.	6:40 A. M.
St. Wayne	6:55 A. M.	7:25 A. M.	7:55 A. M.
Port Huron	8:10 A. M.	8:40 A. M.	9:10 A. M.
Winchester	9:25 A. M.	9:55 A. M.	10:25 A. M.
Cheboygan	10:40 A. M.	11:10 A. M.	11:40 A. M.

All trains run daily, Sundays excepted.
J. H. PAGE,
Gen. Pass. & Freight Agent.

Drugs.

PERRIN BROS.

DRUGGISTS

DEALERS IN

DRUGS MEDICINES, CHEMICALS

TOILET AND FANCY ARTICLES

CIGARS AND TOBACCO

Corner Main and Elm Streets.

CHEBOYGAN, MICH.

THE CITY DRUG STORE.

A complete assortment of

Paints, Oils, Varnish,

And Window Glass.

Strictly Pure White Lead

At $11.50 per 100 lbs.

Boiled Oil at 80 Cents per Gallon.

A. M. GEROW, proprietor.

Send 25c to G. P. ROWELL & CO., New York, for a pamphlet of 100 pages, containing list of newspapers, and estimates showing cost of advertising.

Hotels.
SPENCER HOUSE,
WM. SPENCER, PROP'R.
This house is situated near the dock, and commands a fine view of the lake. Splendid accommodations for summer visitors. Good rooms and liberal rates.WATTS S. HUMPHREY,
COUNSELLOR-AT-LAW,
notary
Cheboygan, Mich.Physicians.
DR. F. J. POMMIER,
Physician, Surgeon and Accoucher,
Can be found at his residence, opposite the Catholic Church, at Cheboygan.

It having been reported that I do not intend to remain in this place, I take this manner of informing the public that I intend to make this place my permanent residence, and shall in the spring open a first class drug store, where the best and purest French medicines shall be kept. All those who desire medical treatment for any malady I shall be happy to wait upon. not-5m

A. M. GEROW, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Office at City Drug Store. Professional calls promptly attended.T. A. FERRIN, M. D.,
Office in Central Drug Store, sign of the Red Mortar, Howe's block.Real Estate.
FARMING LANDS AND TOWN LOTS for sale and houses to rent by R. PATTERSON, Cheboygan.Collections.
WM. BARTHOLOMEW,
REAL ESTATE AND COLLECTION AGENT,
Cheboygan, Mich. Desirable houses to rent at moderate rates. I also pay taxes for non-resident parties, for a reasonable compensation and gain.Tonsorial Parlor,
Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kelley,
ARTISTS.
(Shop on Corner of Main and Third Sts.)
Hats and Whiskers Dyed Light Brown, Dark Brown or Black.Hair with a SPECIALTY.
Ladies, we would say a word to you.
Don't Throw Away Your Combs.
For they are valuable, bring them to us and we will manufacture them into a
BEAUTIFUL SWITCH
In a firm desired.TO THE GENTLEMEN.
There is no need of your turning your collars to be economical, for we have received a fine assortment of Collars & Cuffs,
Which we will sell at prices that will astonish you.
not-5mBURNS' NEW RESTAURANT.
Just opened, and there is need of going hungry when you can get a
Good Meal for 35 Cents.
Warm meals and lunch at all hours.CIGARS & TOBACCO.
I am now receiving a daily supply of Fresh Fish,
Which will be sold very low.
JOSEPH BURNS,
Cor. Third and Water streets, Cheboygan, Mich.Real Estate.
TURNER, SMITH & HUMPHREYS
REAL ESTATE OFFICE
CHEBOYGAN, MICH.10,000 ACRES
OF
CHOICE HARD WOOD FARMING
LANDS
FOR SALE. PRICE, $3 TO $10 PER ACRE.
TERMS TO SUIT PURCHASERS.
A small payment down and the balance in easy installments.

THESE LANDS are all situated within a reasonable distance of Cheboygan, and are among the best in this section of the state. It is cheaper to buy choice land near town, at a reasonable price, than to take inferior lands for miles.

NORTHERN TRIBUNE.
SATURDAY, JULY 1, 1876.

Government Lights for Cheboygan Harbor.

A letter from Hon. N. B. Bradley, our Representative in Congress, to the editor of this paper, just received, conveys the gratifying intelligence that the bill introduced in the early part of the session, appropriating $10,000 for lights for Cheboygan harbor, passed the House on the 23d, and will not likely be disturbed now. This renders this much needed appropriation for this harbor reasonably certain, for there is very little doubt but that Senator Ferry will see that it goes through the Senate all right. Our people should appreciate this effort on the part of Mr. Bradley, for it has been by the most strenuous exertions and hard labor that this favorable action has been made. The bill was early in the session referred to the Light House Board, which reported against it, but prompt efforts on the part of Mr. Bradley secured a change in their report before it was transmitted to the House. It then passed into the hands of the committee on appropriations, where it found a friend in a member of that committee, Hon. Henry Waldron, of the Second district. Mr. Waldron, it will be remembered, made Cheboygan a visit last fall, and was, therefore, somewhat acquainted with our necessities. He had been made acquainted with the condition of the bill, and when it came up in the committee, stuck so hard for it that he succeeded in saving it, while the committee cut out all of the other light house appropriations, among which was one in Congress's district, and several in Hubbard's. It was probably only because Mr. Waldron is one of the most influential members of the House, and worked very hard for it, that it was got through. In behalf of the citizens of Cheboygan, the TRIBUNE extends its thanks to the gentlemen through whose influence this appropriation has been made.

Rather Mormonish.

Thursday afternoon a lady giving her name as Justice Sutton's wife, and informed that she was the wife of a man who was a member of the law that her husband, John L. Mavor, was a much-married man. She says that on the 15th of May, 1875, she was married to the said John at the Island of Mackinac, and that she had lived with him as his wife. She also stated that on the 20th of May, 1876, he had so far forgotten his marital vows as to marry one Julia Duffany, which act is in violation of the law. Upon this information, Justice Sutton issued a warrant, and Deputy Sheriff Mulvaney arrested the man of plural wives, Thursday night. He was taken before the court, where he was admitted to $500 bail to appear for examination. He states that if he was married to Maggie, he was drunk and didn't know it, or something to that effect. At any rate his mind seems oblivious to the fact of Maggie being his wife. It would now seem probable that before he gets through with this matter he will have his memory refreshed.

The Custom House.

The question is asked quite numerously now-a-days why the custom house office is not moved to Cheboygan, now that the matter has gone through Congress and received the signature of the President. Why it is not done is something which is pretty hard to find out. There is, probably, just about so much red tape process which has to be gone through with before it can be done, and we suppose it is going along as fast as possible. Thursday morning the captain of a passing craft, knowing the action of Congress, sent his boat in to report here, but found, after all, that he had to go to Duncan. The change will no doubt cause considerable confusion the first year.

A Bear Slain.

Last week, Friday, Mr. Orin Carter, who lives near Mullet Lake, went out in the woods near his place and there he met an old bear and two cubs. The old bear being in somewhat of a ferocious frame of mind, she "went for him," but he managed to keep out of her way, and went back and got a gun. He soon came across her again and killed her. He then attempted to secure the cubs alive, but they got away. Mr. Carter states that the bears are unusually numerous this season, he having seen about a half a dozen in that vicinity this spring.

Stolen Pants.

Last week McArthur, Smith & Co. received a package of clothing from Chicago, upon one of the Northern boats, which showed some signs of having been opened in transit, and an examination proved that such was the case. A pair of pants had been abstracted. Unfortunately for the thief, the pants had been made to order for a gentleman of the village, whom it is very difficult to sit, which makes the probabilities rather in favor of their not fitting the thief. The boat should be compelled to suffer the loss, but whether it will or not remains to be determined.

Was It an Earthquake?

Some of our citizens claim to have experienced on Thursday night of last week, a sensation of a peculiar jarring or trembling of the earth so much so as to cause the windows and doors of their houses to shake and rattle, and they feel confident that it could only have been occasioned by a shock of an earthquake. It may be that such was the case, and if so, it would, undoubtedly, account for the great and rapid rise of water at the Sault and other places, on the following day, Friday, as mentioned in the TRIBUNE of last week. We are not aware of there ever before having been felt in this section such a thing as an earthquake shock, but from the description of the sensation as given by those who felt it, it would seem to be the same as that experienced in those sections where shocks have been known to occur.

A Life-Saving Machine.

The Detroit News gives an account of a new life-saving apparatus, which was tested there a few days ago. It says the boat was accompanied by a band of music, whose strains successfully combated the influences of the rain. Between the land on the flats and Star Island, and about three-quarters of a mile from the latter, Captain Rhodes gave an exhibition of the merits of his life-saving coat. The captain jumped off into the lake, and the steamer went along to his destination, leaving him to make his way ashore. There was a stiff breeze blowing, and after buffeting the waves for some time, the skipper of a passing schooner desisted the captain in the water, and, supposing he needed assistance, hove to and went to the rescue in a small boat. "When he rowed up to him he said, 'Take a hold and I'll lift you in.' The skipper, who knew nothing of the life-saving coat, was considerably surprised when he was answered: 'No, I thank you, I don't want your assistance.' What on earth are you doing?" said the skipper. "Nothing on earth at all; I am taking a little excursion on the water." "Well," said the skipper, "you do take it cool." "Not so cool either," rejoined the captain, taking a flask of brandy out of his pocket, "I can keep warm you see. Take a drink!" The skipper's wonderment increased, but he took the flask and swallowed some of the contents. "Well, I have taken a good many drinks in queer places, but this is the queerest place and way to get a drink I ever experienced."

Result of a Fishing Expedition.

Monday last there met in this quiet town a lumberman, a Doctor of Divinity and a Hoosier. A short consultation as to how they could while away a few hours in an enjoyable and beneficial manner resulted in their going on a fishing expedition. Not feeling disposed to distinguish themselves very greatly, they went below the dam. They possessed some of the elements of success, for they were quite patient for a brief period, but they did not prove to be successful disciples of Isaac Walton. The D. D. was perched upon the end of a spile, and seemed the personification of resignation, while the lumberman and Hoosier occupied a much more indolent position upon the bank. Soon the warm sun and the musical roar of the falling waters had their effect upon the two last named individuals, and they soon were dreaming that the fish were jumping out of the stream and placing themselves upon their string. The D. D. looked up and took in the situation of affairs, and at the same time remembered that his next sermon was not finished, and that it required immediate attention. He departed. An hour later there was a scene there that baffles description. Whether the lumberman or the Hoosier first came to realize the situation will probably never be known, but as near as our reporter can learn, both nearly at the same time rubbed his eyes and looked about him and asked in a tone of dismay: "Where's the preacher?" Could it be possible that he had succumbed to the same influence to which they had become victims, and had fallen off the spile? They could see no track of him—not even his hat was visible, or other sign. Anxiously they looked about, and finally went to the D. D.'s residence. Of course he was there, and their anxiety was turned into mirth. The lumberman and the Hoosier took home a string of fish, but the D. D. claims to recognize them as having been during the early part of the afternoon in the possession of a couple of small boys.

Potosky and the Fourth.

Potosky was going to celebrate the Fourth, but the people didn't seem to care much, if we may take the Democrat as authority. There were some committees appointed, but they have not worked with that degree of energy which the Democrat man approves, and receives a mild castigation, speaking sarcastically, at his hands. The Little Traverse people seem to be awake to the importance of the occasion, and have proposed a joint celebration—one part of the day in Potosky and the other part in Little Traverse. Potosky did not have patriotism enough to take any interest pro or con upon it. Well, we can't expect much from a county which refuses to pay a few hundred dollars, to secure the expenditure of three times the number of thousands, for the internal improvement of their county. If Emmet county has its history written for the Centennial Fourth, the historian should not fail to put in the late action of the county legislature—refusing to pay the inland navigation survey bill. Should the evil effects of it still be visible at the next Centennial, the people there would like to know who was responsible for it.

The Democratic Nominations.

Dispatches received here Wednesday night conveyed the intelligence that the Democratic convention at St. Louis had nominated Samuel J. Tilden, of New York, for President, and Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana, for Vice-President. As far as ability goes, there can be very little said; but both have a political record which would, if there were no other reasons, probably prevent their election to these offices. Mr. Tilden was the author of the famous "peace resolution," adopted by the Chicago National Democratic convention, which declared the war a failure, and demanded an immediate cessation of hostilities. The record of Mr. Hendricks, during this same period of our country's trial, is equally unsavory. It will not be until the Democratic party ceases to put forward the men who took this disloyal stand during the war, that they can have much hopes of succeeding to the government of this nation.

The Entertainment.

Our reporter, who has a habit of roaming around town, happened the other evening to pass by where those who are to participate in the musical portion of the programme of the entertainment for the benefit of the Congregational church were rehearsing, and having an ear for music, stopped to listen. He is a judge of music, and says, that from what he heard, he is certain that that part of the entertainment will be first class, and fully equal, if not superior, to that of any of the previous entertainments, and would advise everybody who hath music in their soul to be sure to be present. He also learned that "Cousin Jedidah" was expected to be present on the occasion, and when he comes "won't we have a jolly time." The musical portion of the programme will consist of solos, duets, quartettes and choruses. The committees in charge of the other parts of the programme are all at work with a will, and everything indicates that the entertainment is going to be a very pleasing one, and we would advise our citizens to keep it in mind and make their arrangements to be present, for we feel confident that they will be fully repaid.

A Life-Saving Machine.

The Detroit News gives an account of a new life-saving apparatus, which was tested there a few days ago. It says the boat was accompanied by a band of music, whose strains successfully combated the influences of the rain. Between the land on the flats and Star Island, and about three-quarters of a mile from the latter, Captain Rhodes gave an exhibition of the merits of his life-saving coat. The captain jumped off into the lake, and the steamer went along to his destination, leaving him to make his way ashore. There was a stiff breeze blowing, and after buffeting the waves for some time, the skipper of a passing schooner desisted the captain in the water, and, supposing he needed assistance, hove to and went to the rescue in a small boat. "When he rowed up to him he said, 'Take a hold and I'll lift you in.' The skipper, who knew nothing of the life-saving coat, was considerably surprised when he was answered: 'No, I thank you, I don't want your assistance.' What on earth are you doing?" said the skipper. "Nothing on earth at all; I am taking a little excursion on the water." "Well," said the skipper, "you do take it cool." "Not so cool either," rejoined the captain, taking a flask of brandy out of his pocket, "I can keep warm you see. Take a drink!" The skipper's wonderment increased, but he took the flask and swallowed some of the contents. "Well, I have taken a good many drinks in queer places, but this is the queerest place and way to get a drink I ever experienced."

Result of a Fishing Expedition.

Monday last there met in this quiet town a lumberman, a Doctor of Divinity and a Hoosier. A short consultation as to how they could while away a few hours in an enjoyable and beneficial manner resulted in their going on a fishing expedition. Not feeling disposed to distinguish themselves very greatly, they went below the dam. They possessed some of the elements of success, for they were quite patient for a brief period, but they did not prove to be successful disciples of Isaac Walton. The D. D. was perched upon the end of a spile, and seemed the personification of resignation, while the lumberman and Hoosier occupied a much more indolent position upon the bank. Soon the warm sun and the musical roar of the falling waters had their effect upon the two last named individuals, and they soon were dreaming that the fish were jumping out of the stream and placing themselves upon their string. The D. D. looked up and took in the situation of affairs, and at the same time remembered that his next sermon was not finished, and that it required immediate attention. He departed. An hour later there was a scene there that baffles description. Whether the lumberman or the Hoosier first came to realize the situation will probably never be known, but as near as our reporter can learn, both nearly at the same time rubbed his eyes and looked about him and asked in a tone of dismay: "Where's the preacher?" Could it be possible that he had succumbed to the same influence to which they had become victims, and had fallen off the spile? They could see no track of him—not even his hat was visible, or other sign. Anxiously they looked about, and finally went to the D. D.'s residence. Of course he was there, and their anxiety was turned into mirth. The lumberman and the Hoosier took home a string of fish, but the D. D. claims to recognize them as having been during the early part of the afternoon in the possession of a couple of small boys.

Potosky and the Fourth.

Potosky was going to celebrate the Fourth, but the people didn't seem to care much, if we may take the Democrat as authority. There were some committees appointed, but they have not worked with that degree of energy which the Democrat man approves, and receives a mild castigation, speaking sarcastically, at his hands. The Little Traverse people seem to be awake to the importance of the occasion, and have proposed a joint celebration—one part of the day in Potosky and the other part in Little Traverse. Potosky did not have patriotism enough to take any interest pro or con upon it. Well, we can't expect much from a county which refuses to pay a few hundred dollars, to secure the expenditure of three times the number of thousands, for the internal improvement of their county. If Emmet county has its history written for the Centennial Fourth, the historian should not fail to put in the late action of the county legislature—refusing to pay the inland navigation survey bill. Should the evil effects of it still be visible at the next Centennial, the people there would like to know who was responsible for it.

The Democratic Nominations.

Dispatches received here Wednesday night conveyed the intelligence that the Democratic convention at St. Louis had nominated Samuel J. Tilden, of New York, for President, and Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana, for Vice-President. As far as ability goes, there can be very little said; but both have a political record which would, if there were no other reasons, probably prevent their election to these offices. Mr. Tilden was the author of the famous "peace resolution," adopted by the Chicago National Democratic convention, which declared the war a failure, and demanded an immediate cessation of hostilities. The record of Mr. Hendricks, during this same period of our country's trial, is equally unsavory. It will not be until the Democratic party ceases to put forward the men who took this disloyal stand during the war, that they can have much hopes of succeeding to the government of this nation.

The Entertainment.

Our reporter, who has a habit of roaming around town, happened the other evening to pass by where those who are to participate in the musical portion of the programme of the entertainment for the benefit of the Congregational church were rehearsing, and having an ear for music, stopped to listen. He is a judge of music, and says, that from what he heard, he is certain that that part of the entertainment will be first class, and fully equal, if not superior, to that of any of the previous entertainments, and would advise everybody who hath music in their soul to be sure to be present. He also learned that "Cousin Jedidah" was expected to be present on the occasion, and when he comes "won't we have a jolly time." The musical portion of the programme will consist of solos, duets, quartettes and choruses. The committees in charge of the other parts of the programme are all at work with a will, and everything indicates that the entertainment is going to be a very pleasing one, and we would advise our citizens to keep it in mind and make their arrangements to be present, for we feel confident that they will be fully repaid.

A Life-Saving Machine.

The Detroit News gives an account of a new life-saving apparatus, which was tested there a few days ago. It says the boat was accompanied by a band of music, whose strains successfully combated the influences of the rain. Between the land on the flats and Star Island, and about three-quarters of a mile from the latter, Captain Rhodes gave an exhibition of the merits of his life-saving coat. The captain jumped off into the lake, and the steamer went along to his destination, leaving him to make his way ashore. There was a stiff breeze blowing, and after buffeting the waves for some time, the skipper of a passing schooner desisted the captain in the water, and, supposing he needed assistance, hove to and went to the rescue in a small boat. "When he rowed up to him he said, 'Take a hold and I'll lift you in.' The skipper, who knew nothing of the life-saving coat, was considerably surprised when he was answered: 'No, I thank you, I don't want your assistance.' What on earth are you doing?" said the skipper. "Nothing on earth at all; I am taking a little excursion on the water." "Well," said the skipper, "you do take it cool." "Not so cool either," rejoined the captain, taking a flask of brandy out of his pocket, "I can keep warm you see. Take a drink!" The skipper's wonderment increased, but he took the flask and swallowed some of the contents. "Well, I have taken a good many drinks in queer places, but this is the queerest place and way to get a drink I ever experienced."

Result of a Fishing Expedition.

Monday last there met in this quiet town a lumberman, a Doctor of Divinity and a Hoosier. A short consultation as to how they could while away a few hours in an enjoyable and beneficial manner resulted in their going on a fishing expedition. Not feeling disposed to distinguish themselves very greatly, they went below the dam. They possessed some of the elements of success, for they were quite patient for a brief period, but they did not prove to be successful disciples of Isaac Walton. The D. D. was perched upon the end of a spile, and seemed the personification of resignation, while the lumberman and Hoosier occupied a much more indolent position upon the bank. Soon the warm sun and the musical roar of the falling waters had their effect upon the two last named individuals, and they soon were dreaming that the fish were jumping out of the stream and placing themselves upon their string. The D. D. looked up and took in the situation of affairs, and at the same time remembered that his next sermon was not finished, and that it required immediate attention. He departed. An hour later there was a scene there that baffles description. Whether the lumberman or the Hoosier first came to realize the situation will probably never be known, but as near as our reporter can learn, both nearly at the same time rubbed his eyes and looked about him and asked in a tone of dismay: "Where's the preacher?" Could it be possible that he had succumbed to the same influence to which they had become victims, and had fallen off the spile? They could see no track of him—not even his hat was visible, or other sign. Anxiously they looked about, and finally went to the D. D.'s residence. Of course he was there, and their anxiety was turned into mirth. The lumberman and the Hoosier took home a string of fish, but the D. D. claims to recognize them as having been during the early part of the afternoon in the possession of a couple of small boys.

Potosky and the Fourth.

Potosky was going to celebrate the Fourth, but the people didn't seem to care much, if we may take the Democrat as authority. There were some committees appointed, but they have not worked with that degree of energy which the Democrat man approves, and receives a mild castigation, speaking sarcastically, at his hands. The Little Traverse people seem to be awake to the importance of the occasion, and have proposed a joint celebration—one part of the day in Potosky and the other part in Little Traverse. Potosky did not have patriotism enough to take any interest pro or con upon it. Well, we can't expect much from a county which refuses to pay a few hundred dollars, to secure the expenditure of three times the number of thousands, for the internal improvement of their county. If Emmet county has its history written for the Centennial Fourth, the historian should not fail to put in the late action of the county legislature—refusing to pay the inland navigation survey bill. Should the evil effects of it still be visible at the next Centennial, the people there would like to know who was responsible for it.

The Democratic Nominations.

Dispatches received here Wednesday night conveyed the intelligence that the Democratic convention at St. Louis had nominated Samuel J. Tilden, of New York, for President, and Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana, for Vice-President. As far as ability goes, there can be very little said; but both have a political record which would, if there were no other reasons, probably prevent their election to these offices. Mr. Tilden was the author of the famous "peace resolution," adopted by the Chicago National Democratic convention, which declared the war a failure, and demanded an immediate cessation of hostilities. The record of Mr. Hendricks, during this same period of our country's trial, is equally unsavory. It will not be until the Democratic party ceases to put forward the men who took this disloyal stand during the war, that they can have much hopes of succeeding to the government of this nation.

The Entertainment.

Our reporter, who has a habit of roaming around town, happened the other evening to pass by where those who are to participate in the musical portion of the programme of the entertainment for the benefit of the Congregational church were rehearsing, and having an ear for music, stopped to listen. He is a judge of music, and says, that from what he heard, he is certain that that part of the entertainment will be first class, and fully equal, if not superior, to that of any of the previous entertainments, and would advise everybody who hath music in their soul to be sure to be present. He also learned that "Cousin Jedidah" was expected to be present on the occasion, and when he comes "won't we have a jolly time." The musical portion of the programme will consist of solos, duets, quartettes and choruses. The committees in charge of the other parts of the programme are all at work with a will, and everything indicates that the entertainment is going to be a very pleasing one, and we would advise our citizens to keep it in mind and make their arrangements to be present, for we feel confident that they will be fully repaid.

A Life-Saving Machine.

The Detroit News gives an account of a new life-saving apparatus, which was tested there a few days ago. It says the boat was accompanied by a band of music, whose strains successfully combated the influences of the rain. Between the land on the flats and Star Island, and about three-quarters of a mile from the latter, Captain Rhodes gave an exhibition of the merits of his life-saving coat. The captain jumped off into the lake, and the steamer went along to his destination, leaving him to make his way ashore. There was a stiff breeze blowing, and after buffeting the waves for some time, the skipper of a passing schooner desisted the captain in the water, and, supposing he needed assistance, hove to and went to the rescue in a small boat. "When he rowed up to him he said, 'Take a hold and I'll lift you in.' The skipper, who knew nothing of the life-saving coat, was considerably surprised when he was answered: 'No, I thank you, I don't want your assistance.' What on earth are you doing?" said the skipper. "Nothing on earth at all; I am taking a little excursion on the water." "Well," said the skipper, "you do take it cool." "Not so cool either," rejoined the captain, taking a flask of brandy out of his pocket, "I can keep warm you see. Take a drink!" The skipper's wonderment increased, but he took the flask and swallowed some of the contents. "Well, I have taken a good many drinks in queer places, but this is the queerest place and way to get a drink I ever experienced."

Result of a Fishing Expedition.

Monday last there met in this quiet town a lumberman, a Doctor of Divinity and a Hoosier. A short consultation as to how they could while away a few hours in an enjoyable and beneficial manner resulted in their going on a fishing expedition. Not feeling disposed to distinguish themselves very greatly, they went below the dam. They possessed some of the elements of success, for they were quite patient for a brief period, but they did not prove to be successful disciples of Isaac Walton. The D. D. was perched upon the